About Ava Community Energy

What is Ava Community Energy?

Ava Community Energy (Ava) is a local community choice power supplier that provides Alameda County, unincorporated San Joaquin County, and the cities of Tracy, Stockton, and Lathrop with renewable energy options at lower rates.

As a not-for-profit public agency, Ava reinvests revenue back into the community through local electrification programs, clean power projects, and support for community organizations.

Our mission is to drive increasing access to clean energy, serving the needs of our customers and the well-being of our community.

Service Territory

We serve Alameda County, unincorporated San Joaquin County, and the cities of Tracy, Stockton, and Lathrop.

Ava is the default provider of electricity generation service for all customers in our service territory. Customers are automatically enrolled in our service and are billed by PG&E.

History in Brief

- 2015 ● Feasibility study commissioned by Alameda County
- 2016 ● East Bay Community Energy formed as a Joint Powers Authority (JPA)
- 2018 ● Launched service to residential and commercial customers in 11 cities and in unincorporated Alameda County
- 2019 ● Cities of Tracy, Pleasanton, and Newark joined JPA
- 2021 ● Began service to cities of Tracy, Pleasanton, and Newark
- 2022 ● City of Stockton joined JPA
- 2023 ● Lathrop joined JPA;
East Bay Community Energy rebranded to Ava Community Energy
- 2024 ● Unincorporated San Joaquin County joined JPA
- 2025 ● Began service to the cities of Stockton and Lathrop
- 2026 ● Beginning service to unincorporated San Joaquin County

What is a Community Choice Aggregator (CCA)?

Investor-Owned Utilities (IOUs)

- Privately run
- For profit (i.e., shareholders)
- Rates require CPUC approval
- Example: Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) provides gas & electricity to Northern/Central CA

Publicly Owned Utilities (POUs)

- Government-run
- Not-for-profit
- Rates require Board approval
- Example: Alameda Municipal Power provides electricity to the City of Alameda

Local Public Agencies:

- Government-run
- Not-for-profit
- Rates require Board approval
- Examples:
 - AC Transit provides public transit in Alameda County
 - East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD) provides water for parts of the county

All one thing in common: no choice. CCAs are not-for-profit public agencies that offer communities another energy option and more local control

CCAs are proven across California

Ava Community Energy is one of 25 Community Choice Agencies in California offering an alternative to the applicable Investor-Owned Utilities (PG&E, SCE, and SDG&E).

21,000+ megawatts

of new clean generation capacity contracted through long-term Power Purchase Agreements by CCAs across California

58%

The percentage of load served by CCAs in PG&E's service area in 2024

How It Works

There are two components to electricity service that customers pay for:

Generation:

How electricity is produced

provided by Ava

Delivery:

How electricity gets to you

provided by PG&E

Ava only provides electricity generation. PG&E owns the transmission infrastructure and meters in our service area, so they handle delivery and billing. Before Ava, PG&E was the only option for electricity generation.

By the Numbers:

As of March 2026:

761,096
accounts served

Population:
2+ million

96%
overall participation rate

$183.6 million
customer bill savings since 2018

18
member communities

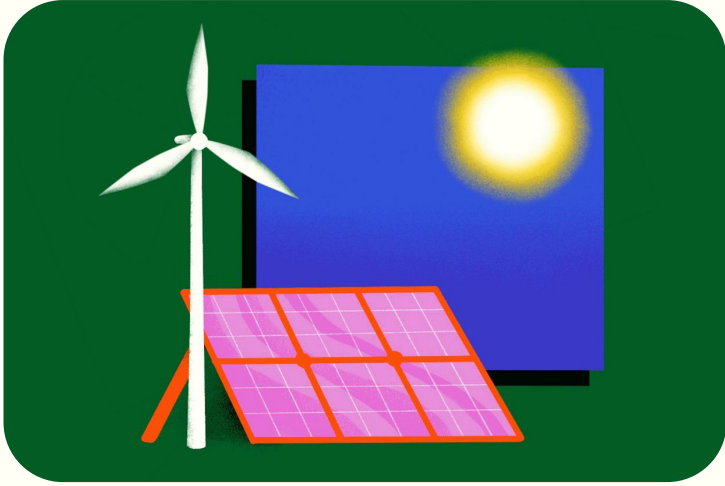

2,452 MW
long-term renewable energy contracts

$107.6 million
reinvested in our service area since 2018

How It Works

1. Ava buys and generates clean power

Ava buys from, and is building, clean power plants. Ava sells the power to customers at low rates.

2. PG&E delivers the power to homes and businesses

Ava's power is delivered to customers by PG&E. Customers pay PG&E for delivery as they always have.

3. Customers get the power and local benefits

Customers benefit from clean energy, low rates, local governance, and innovative programs.

How It Works: Customer Billing

Generation and delivery split into separate charges

- PG&E manages billing. Customers get a single bill each month from PG&E that includes both Ava charges for generation and PG&E charges for delivery.
- It's not an additional charge. Ava charges replace what PG&E used to charge for generation.
- Customers receive a monthly credit. PG&E issues a Generation Credit to Ava customers each month. That credit is the amount PG&E would have charged for generation services, and it offsets Ava charges.

CAC Key Documents

CAC Guide

- Board-approved document that establishes the CAC's structure and appointment process
- Updated as needed (e.g., when Ava's service area expands to include new cities/counties)
- Last updated: December 2025
- Access here

CAC Workplan

- Board-approved document that facilitates CAC's advisory process and subject matter priorities, without dictation or limiting scope
- Establishes ad-hoc research/meeting process
- Updated by Board action "...from time to time."
- Access here

Transparency & Conflicts of Interest

CAC Members are asked to perform their duties in an impartial manner and free from bias caused by their financial interests and/or the interests of organizations with whom they are actively affiliated.

Ava requests that CAC members are transparent with the Committee regarding potential conflicts of interest and avoid the appearance of impropriety. Disclosure of conflicts for members is vital, and the responsibility of the individual members of the CAC. Stating a potential conflict of interest at a meeting would satisfy this requirement.

Example:

Member A is a business owner that sells balcony solar. If Ava has a Request for Proposal process regarding balcony solar, regardless of if Member A responds to that RFP or not, they should tell the Committee about their business prior to making any comments during a CAC meeting.

Fellow CAC members should then take this knowledge into account when accepting member comment and may encourage Member A to abstain from voting on the item

Affiliation with Ava as a CAC Member

Ava's Public Meetings (e.g., Ava Board; Executive Committee; etc)

- CAC Members are welcome to attend other Ava public meetings
- If speaking during public comment, CAC members should disclose they are on the CAC but speaking as a member of the public (i.e., not on behalf of the CAC, nor Ava)
- The same would apply to City Council and/or County Board of Supervisors meetings

Events, Conference, Non-Public/Community Meetings

- CAC Members are encouraged to provide updates about Ava to their communities and spread awareness of Ava's offerings
- Members may indicate they are on the CAC; but should avoid the perception they speak for the CAC, Ava as an agency, or that the CAC has official decision-making authority

If unclear, please contact Ava staff to discuss.
